WHEELING, APRIL 27, 1894.

What May Happen in Washington.

Coxey's man Browne says: "This is an army of peace. If it becomes anything else it will be the fault of the authorities." Browne has not been supposed to be a dangerous person, and yet the public does not know enough about him to take his measure.

It is possible that Browne is under the impression that bluster will work as well in Washington as it has in the west. If this be his idea he does not take into account the difference in the circumstances.

Washington is not in the west and it is situated differently from any other American city. There the government of the United States is supreme. There the troops can be assembled at short notice and enough of them to guard the city against any hostile invasion. If the army of peace "becomes anything else," something will happen that will surprise Browne and the rest of his crowd.

With absolute certainty the city of Washington will not fall into the hands of a mob. It is, therefore, fortunate that the national capital has been chosen as the rallying point and the place for the movement to reach its climax.

If the supreme court of Virginia were not jealous of Belva Lockwood it would not have refused to admit her to practice. Shame on the boasted chivalry of the Old Dominion!

They Are Democrats.

Every day or so somebody reports Senator Camden or Senator Faulkner as saying that he will stand with his party of the tariff question. This time it is Senator Faulkner. Here it is as it appears in the New York Evening Post:

Although Senator Faulkner, of West Virginia, was instrumental in having a duty put on coal and iron, he will vote for any tariff bill that is ultimately agreed upon. "If the majority of the senate," he says, "should vote to take off the duty, I shall acquiesce in the judgment of the majority. I am a Democrat always and shall not desert my party in this great fight for tariff reform."

It should be understood by whom it may concern that the West Virginia senators do not train with the "conservatives." They will vote at their party's direction. They will support a bill putting coal on the free list if that be put at them as a Democratic measure.

They would in the same spirit support a bill offering a bounty of a dollar a ton on all foreign coal brought into this country. No dose will be too strong for them so long as the Democratic name is blown in the bottle.

Spring has returned and is doing business at the old stand.

Awkward but not Fatal.

The other day the Minnesota Democrats who want free trade and plenty of it denounced certain Democratic senators for standing in the way of this great reform. In their denunciation they included some senators who are not guilty as charged in the indictment. Now the President nominates one of these Minnesota Democrats to be United States district attorney, and the question is, What will the denounced senators do about it?

Mr. Murat Halestead was knocked out of the mission to Germany because he had expressed himself freely about honorable senators. His nomination gave the opportunity to get back and the senators got there. For the encouragement of the Minnesota man it may be added that Mr. Halestead did not go out and hang himself.

When a neighborhood feeds the Coxeyites and passes them on to another neighborhood, that is called hospitality. It bears all the earmarks of self-preservation.

All to Themselves.

The Republican suggestion from time to time that there is no quorum in the senate, is a polite intimation that if Democratic senators desire to pass their tariff bill they will have to remain in the senate and attend to business.

Since no Republican was elected to pass that bill and Democrats—with a few exceptions—say they were, the Democratic brethren cannot complain if the Republicans refuse to deprive them of the full credit of doing what they were commissioned to do. On the contrary they should be highly pleased to have the opportunity to make the record.

Just think of Democrats seriously considering a rule to cut off debate in the senate. When any Republican has suggested that it might come to this the idea has been denounced by Democrats as revolutionary. Since they swallowed the quorum-counting rule they have had nothing to say about revolutions.

Tough Steedling for the Leaders.

The tariff policy of the Democratic leaders has undergone many changes since Congress assembled. At first they were going to pass the tariff bill, which meant the Wilson bill as it was prepared by the chairman of the ways and means committee and the few who were graciously permitted to assist in the delivery of that measure. The bawling was knocked about more or less in the Democratic end of the committee and was further despatched in the house.

In the senate its fate has been worse. The sub-committee of three who know as little as that number of fairly intelligent men can know about the manufactures of the country concocted what they thought was about the right thing. But it did not suit the trusts in particular and the thing has to be licked into new shape. The bill has been pounded by Democrats in the committee, on the floor of the senate and elsewhere, and the conclusion was reached that unless there were material alterations no tariff bill could be passed.

So the tactics have changed, and the effort now is to pay a tariff bill—almost any tariff bill—to show that the Democratic party is not utterly incapable of legislating. The difference between the tariff bill and a tariff bill is expressed by the difference between the definite article and the indefinite article.

At this distance it is hardly possible to appreciate the tremendous effort being made in Washington to pass some sort of tariff bill so that the Democratic party may be able to claim that it has redeemed its pledges. The dispatches from the capital show that the leaders are almost at their wit's end.

The attempt to involve the railroad men in a coal strike should fail. The railroad men are not parties to the controversy.

The Law Must Be Supreme.

In the prompt and successful employment of United States troops in Montana the so-called "industrialists" may see what is in store for them if they cut any unlawful capers in Washington. Under this government of the law the way to right wrongs is under the law.

The men who are marching to Washington, if they be citizens, have the ballot. They cannot compel Congress to obey their command, and the executive authority of the United States will not permit Congress to be intimidated. That would be an odious form of anarchy not to be tolerated for an instant.

In the senate yesterday Senators Wolcott and Vest talked common sense and patriotism enough to set a good example to other public men. There has been too much twinking to dangerous sentiments and dangerous men. It is time for men who love their country to get together and present a patriotic front.

The secretary of the navy has done well to soften the sentence of Commander Hyer and Lieutenant Lyman, of the Kearsarge. The testimony did not make it clear that these officers were very culpable, and a mere censure would not be light punishment.

Strolling bands of idlers who turn into bandits are a menace to the public peace. The best thing that can happen to them is to come into close contact with the United States forces. This is a powerful sedative.

There is dickering among Democrats to reach a conclusion on the tariff. Some of the faithful are making hard terms for the tariff butchers. The bill may not know itself when they all get through with it.

When the regulars started for the Hogans they bagged their game without firing a shot. This gang will not steal another train within a few days. How different it is when they run against our Uncle Sam.

Mr. Bland is in the ring again with a free coinage measure and is about to entertain the country with some more antics. Mr. Bland is almost always with us.

Any crank may stir up what Coxey has stirred up, but a very different kind of mind is required to deal with it after it gets started.

It turns out that "General" Kelly is a reformed base ball player.

BREAKFAST BUDGET.

On the next Memorial Day observed by the Confederate veterans there will be unveiled at Atlanta a tribute to the women of the south to the unknown Confederate dead. It will have the form of Thorvald's famous "Lion of Lucerne" to the memory of the Swiss Guards, and be wrought from white Georgia marble, resting on a base of gray marble. It will be nine feet long.

Charles M. Foulke, of Washington, intends presenting to the Episcopal cathedral which is to be built in that city twelve tapestries illustrating the life of Jesus. They are of the fifteenth century, and were secured by Mr. Foulke a few years ago from a Roman palace, where they had hung ever since they were made.

The Cherokee legislature has at last agreed upon a bill to divide the $8,000,000 received from the sale of the strip bonds per capita among all the Cherokee people. This will give every man, woman and child in the tribe over $600 in cash.

John Simpson, a sailor, was arrested in New York city on Sunday for pulling the beard of several pedestrians. When arraigned he gave as his plea that he called the little episode fun. The judge thought differently and fined him.

William Yancy is a Chicago janitor, who is said to be possessed of a double-decked throat, with two separate and distinct voices. He is a vocalist, and sings bass, soprano and alto at the same time.

Birdseye Blakeman, a well-known New Yorker, intends expending $30,000 in the construction of a library for Stratford, Connecticut. He is a native of Stratford.

Two Chicago boys, James Twohey and Dan O'Keefe, aged 9 and 10 years respectively, were arrested at Valparaiso, Indiana, a short time ago, charged with picking pockets. They are reported as being known to the Chicago police as unruly youths.

A resident of Flatbush, a suburban village of Brooklyn, was out driving the other day, when his horse kicked up a George II guinea with its foot.

A clam with the claws of a fish-hawk firmly held by its shell was picked up at Southport, North Carolina, a short time ago.

PERSONAL POINTS.

Judge J. K. Hines, a prominent Atlanta attorney, has published a card withdrawing from the Democratic party and allying himself with the Populists. "The indications are," says the Baltimore Sun, "that he will be the Populist candidate for governor of Georgia."

Lord Tweedmouth by his expedition in proving his father's will recently saved an extra duty that would have been demanded after the new budget. His promptitude earned for him just $130,000.

Mrs. Oscar Worland, of Shelbyville, Ind., was celebrating her sixty-seventh birthday anniversary on Sunday. While her children and many friends were enjoying the festivities she dropped dead.

A cable dispatch to the New York Tribune says that the prince of Wales is to dine at Lord Rosebery's at a full dress banquet on Saturday, May 25, to celebrate her majesty's birthday.

The amount called for by the check which President Cleveland sent to the National Democratic Club organization was $500.

Mrs. John W. Mackay has returned to London and is occupying her mansion in Carlton House Terrace.

WIT AND WISDOM.

"I'd like to go and see them industrial soldiers march through town," said the Pennsylvania farmer, regretfully; "but I can't get enough men to do my spring plowing. I'm tryin' to do the work of three men, and I ain't got time!"—Chicago Tribune.

It was in the far West. "Darling!" he whispered; "after I left you last evening I walked on air!" She met his words with a look of wonder and amazement. "Well, I declare!" she exclaimed; "who cut you down, Hank?"—Town Topics.

WHAT LIFE IS.

Minneapolis Tribune.
A little crib beside the bed.
A little face above the spread,
A little nose upon the floor,
A little foot behind the door,
A little lad with dark brown hair,
A little blue-eyed face and fair,
A little lane that leads to school,
A little pencil, slate and rule,
A little winsome, blushing maid,
A little hand within his laid—
That is where he got married.
A little family gathering round,
A little turtledove, tear-dewed mound—
That is where the child died—
A little cottage and a corner four,
A little old-time fashioned stove,
A little added to his soil,
A little rest from hardest toil,
A little drier in his hair,
A little stool and an easy chair,
A little night of earth-lit gloom,
A little corpse to the tomb,
That is what life is.

BRECKINRIDGE'S LATEST.

His Scheme Now is to Stir Up His People Against Judge Bradley.

LEXINGTON, Ky., April 25.—A tremendous effort is being made to convince the people of this district that the verdict against Colonel Breckinridge in the Pollard case was due to the unfair charge of Judge Bradley to the jury. Thousands of circulars asserting that the charge and verdict were unjust are being circulated. The rural press repeats the tale, and in Woodward county the friends of Breckinridge are so aroused that a big meeting is to be held at which Judge Bradley is to be burned in effigy.

Ogden—Post.

Special Dispatch to the Intelligencer.
CLARKSBURG, W. Va., April 25.—A brilliant wedding occurred at noon to-day at Temple Moor, this county, it being the marriage of Miss Emma Mai Post, daughter of Hon. Ira C. Post, and sister of Attorney M. D. Post, of Wheeling, to Dr. W. C. Ogden, of Fairmont, brother of Editor Hecchele G. Ogden, of the Wheeling News. Many persons of prominence from all over the state were present, Buckhannon, Fairmont, Wheeling and Chicago being well represented. After a trip through the east Dr. and Mrs. Ogden will return to Fairmont, where they will reside in the future.

Thrown From His Wagon.

Special Dispatch to the Intelligencer.
PARKERSBURG, W. Va., April 25.—To-night J. H. Sam, of Adams Fork, started to drive home from the G. A. R. festivities. While standing up in his wagon the horses started and threw him out. He fell on the curb and the wagon passed over his breast, badly injuring him. His skull was also fractured by the fall. It is feared that he is fatally hurt. His daughter was with him, but was not hurt.

A Household Treasure.

D. W. Fuller, of Canajoharie, N. Y., says that he always keeps Dr. King's New Discovery in the house and his family has always found the very best results follow its use; that he would not be without it, if procurable. G. A. Dykeman, Druggist, Catskill, N. Y., says that Dr. King's New Discovery is undoubtedly the best cough remedy; that he has used it in his family for eight years, and it has never failed to do all that is claimed for it. Why not try a remedy so long tried and tested. Trial bottles free at Logan Drug Co.'s drug store. Regular size 50c, and $1.00. 3

DR. EDMISTON DEAD.

The Assistant Physician at the Insane Hospital Dies Suddenly.

Special Dispatch to the Intelligencer.
WESTON, W. Va., April 25.—Dr. Mat Edmiston, assistant physician of the West Virginia Hospital for the Insane, at Weston, died this morning at 5:40 of heart failure, resulting from typhoid fever.

Dr. Edmiston was prominently connected with the old families of Weston, his father being the late Judge Matthew Edmiston, one of the most noted lawyers of his day.

The deceased, by his marriage, was connected with a large portion of Weston, and personally was a general favorite. He was recognized as a most successful practitioner, with a promising future.

He was largely interested in business enterprises, being a partner in the flouring mills of A. G. Griffin & Co., located here.

It is understood that owing to his illness he was not elected as superintendent of the second insane asylum at Spencer, and it was for this reason that no change was made.

He was a brother of Hon. Andrew Edmiston, well known throughout the state. He was a member of the order of Knights of Pythias.

UNITED STATES COURT.

Ross Evans Gets $2000 and Six Months Imprisonment.

Special Dispatch to the Intelligencer.
CLARKSBURG, W. Va., April 25.—The entire time of Wednesday in the U. S. court was devoted to the suit of J. B. Stout against the Baltimore & Ohio for damages resulting from a train running onto his wagon at the crossing east of Clarksburg in 1884. The suit was for $3,000 damages and was based on the fact that the whistle was not blown for the crossing. The case was ruled out of court. To-day the United States against Ross Evans, of Wheeling, for raising $5 to $20, resulted in Ross being fined $200 with six months imprisonment. Against Paul M'Cloud, Randolph county, retailing without license, $100 and thirty days.

MISS AMISS' DEATH.

Dr. Dennison Held in Bonds by the Coroner—The Auto-Mortem Statement Ruled Out.

Special Dispatch to the Intelligencer.
PARKERSBURG, W. Va., April 25.—The inquest on the death of Miss Sallie Amiss was held to-day. She died suddenly Tuesday and later Dr. F. C. Dennison was arrested on the charge of murder and alleged criminal practice. The inquest brought out nothing against Dennison and the coroner's verdict was death by peritonitis. Dennison was bound in $1,000 to answer the felony warrant next week. The young lady's ante-mortem statement, which is alleged to include the doctor, was ruled out because she did not know she was in a dying condition when she made it. Therefore it is not admissible as the ante-mortem evidence.

Odd Fellows Anniversary.

Special Dispatch to the Intelligencer.
FAIRMONT, W. Va., April 25.—The celebration of the seventy-fifth anniversary of Odd Fellowship was the occasion of an outpouring of the members and their friends here to-day. The parade was well organized by Col. C. L. Smith, chief marshal, and paraded the principal streets of this town and Palatine, ending at the opera house, where a fine programme of speeches, music and recitations was rendered. The principal address was made by Owen S. McKinney, who was in his element. Supper was provided for over 600 at the hotels. The baroque of the first degree was given at the opera house for the entertainment of the visitors.

The following lodges were here as organizations: Sunniston, Palatine, Farmington, Fairview, Monongah. Visitors from other points were also present.

At Dennison.

Special Dispatch to the Intelligencer.
DENNISON, Ohio, April 25.—The two cities of Dennison and Uhrichsville gave a royal welcome to-day to visiting Odd Fellows and strangers to the number of 5,000, who came here to-day to participate in the celebration of the seventy-fifth anniversary of the order by the lodges of eastern Ohio. This afternoon a grand street parade with 2,000 in line took place, participated in by lodges from thirty cities. The exercises were held in the opera house. Mayors Heale, of Dennison, and Malone, of Uhrichsville, delivered the addresses of welcome, responded by Rev. S. A. Fisher, and addresses were made by Rev. C. C. Erwin, Hon. W. V. B. Crocker and others. The day ended with a musical entertainment to-night.

Celebration at Caldwell.

Special Dispatch to the Intelligencer.
CALDWELL, O., April 25.—The seventy-fifth anniversary of Odd Fellowship in America was celebrated at this place to-day with impressive ceremonies. The parade was participated in by many of the orders of this vicinity. At the opera hall the members of the order and citizens were addressed by leading members, the chief speaker of the occasion being Private Daizell.

Created a Panic.

Special Dispatch to the Intelligencer.
CHARLESTON, W. Va., April 25.—The county court created a panic to-day by kicking out all Democratic road officers and electing Republicans in their place. One of the three commissioners voted against it but was turned down by the other two. The court also granted liquor licenses to two men within fifty miles of Kanawha City limits. Kanawha City does not grant license, and the case will be litigated.

A New York Bank Closes.

NEW YORK, April 25.—The Harlem River Bank was closed by State Examiner Judson to-day. The statement of the bank's condition March 1, 1894, shows an increase of $40,000 in the indebtedness of the bank since March 1, 1893, and a decrease of $10,000 in the undivided profits. There will be little or no loss to the depositors.

Sentenced for Contempt.

OKLAHOMA CITY, O. T., April 25.—Judge Henry W. Scott, of the District court, has sentenced J. J. Burke and E. E. Brown, publishers of the Daily Times Journal, of this city, to the county jail for ten days and to pay a fine of $200 each for contempt in commenting upon his judicial character. A great sensation was created.

LARGE SORES ON FACE.

Lost Use of Hands from Blood Poisoning. Physicians and Remedies. No Benefit. Cured by Cuticura Remedies.

I have used your CUTICURA REMEDIES, and can truthfully say that they are everything and more than you represent them.

Last spring I was greatly troubled with blood poisoning caused by Diphtheria. Large sores made their appearance on my face, and my hands were in such a condition that I could not use them. After trying numerous physicians and remedies and receiving no benefit therefrom, I was advised to try the CUTICURA REMEDIES, and did so, and I am now free from all my skin troubles. I cannot speak praise enough for your remedies.

BABY SEVERELY AFFLICTED

My baby was severely afflicted with some dreadful skin disease. Its head, face and hands for awhile were nearly one solid sore. I had doctors prescribe for it, tried several remedies, but all seemed to do no good. I saw an advertisement of the CUTICURA REMEDIES, and concluded to try them. I bought a complete set, and began using, and now my little girl seems to be completely cured.
